The part nationalised banks in the UK are not assigned an individual rating from Fitch based on their stand alone financial strength. Accordingly, Fitch has assigned an F rating which means that at a historical point of time, this bank failed and is now owned by the Government.

These institutions were originally recipients of an F1+ short term rating as they effectively took on the creditworthiness of the Government itself i.e. deposits made with them are effectively being made to the Government. In October 2011, a review of the perceived level of government support, resulted in a downrating in Fitch rating to F1 status. This was despite the affected banks being stronger than before.

The order of term deposit investments (excluding instant access call accounts rating F1) in line with council policy are :

Investment Grade - Top Rated: We would invest with institutions in this order:

DMO: The Council has unlimited lending limit with DMO.

F1+ : The highest possible short term investment rating

F1 (part nationalised): Just below the highest possible rating. However the RBS group is 84% owned by Government and Lloyds Group more than 40% Government owned.

Other F1: Just below the highest possible rating but without perceived additional support.

Investment Grade - Next Tiers: We would not invest with:

F2 & F3 : Highly rated and sound institutions for short term investments.

The Credit Guarantee Scheme 2008, under which some Banks were eligible for support under the UK bail-out package closed on 26 October 2012
