Dear Sirs

I wish to object to the proposed price increases that have been advertised in the local papers.
In these tough financial times the price increase should be pegged at the inflation rate.

The vehicle and operators licence increases are extortionate and unjustified.
As you feel that you have to make the hackney carriage office pay for itself
Have you thought of cutting the man hours down or even reducing the staff?
As when I started driving for a living the hackney office only had 1 officer.

The council does not seem to care that they could push some small companies out of business, you just seem to think of them as cash cows.

Regards
